

ANDY CARNEGIE'S FUND

Go down into the tenements!
See the squalor and the filth!
See the horror and the wretchedness!

See the mothers, weak and weary, bending over streaming tubs! See the children, pale and stunted, huddled in their misery!

Andrew Carnegie has created a fund of $25,000 a year for our ex-presidents!

Go down into the factories! See the crowded workrooms, dim with murky light! Smell the foetid, stinking air!

See the women, drawn and haggard, with the swollen, bloodshot eyes! See the girl-faces, without bloom, touched by the finger of the great white plague!

Andrew Carnegie has created a fund of $25,000 a year for our ex-presidents!

Go down into the steel mills! See the white hot flame of furnace! Feel the hot and scorching breath of it!

See the smudgy, broken men who are your brothers, labor for the masters' pittance! See the fainting, dying workers!

Andrew Carnegie has created a fund of $25,000 a year for our ex-presidents!

Go down into the coal mines! See the shacks the miners call their homes! See the gaunt and hideous machinery!

See the women with the frightened, deathly faces! See the children, cowed and cowering! See the anxious group around the shafting, waiting news they know is death!

Andrew Carnegie has created a fund of $25,000 a year for our ex-presidents!

Go down into the canneries! See the filth around the food that comes to you!

See the women, toiling hopelessly that they and theirs may live! See the children, robbed of childhood, giving health and strength and life!

Andrew Carnegie has created a fund of $25,000 a year for our ex-presidents!

Go down into the wool mills of New England! See the barren cities of the wool trust's lust!

See the mothers, wives and sisters, going forth each morn to labor! See the martialled ring of bayonets of the soldiers of the masters!

Andrew Carnegie has created a fund of $25,000 a year for our ex-presidents.

Go down into the police court! See the endless round of misery, the procession of the lost!

See the men and women, aye and children! See the drunkard! See the dope fiend! See the thief! Victims all of Adam's curse!

Andrew Carnegie has created a fund of $25,000 a year for our ex-presidents.

Go down into the redlight places! See beneath the glare of light that hides the misery and the horror!

See the drunken woman, trying to forget! See the men who've lost all manhood, working at their awful "trade!"

Andrew Carnegie has created a
